World Boxing Tour Introduction

The World Boxing Tour aims at establishing a competition system that is unified, which will provide new and consistent opportunities for boxers, and with consistently high standards. The Tour's tournaments will allow boxers to compete against their counterparts from different continents more regularly, therefore enhancing and improving skill levels and overall experience.

Apart from increased competition opportunities, the concept provides more lucrative incentives, particularly the prize money which will be awarded to all medallists (on the condition that the medallist has won at least one bout in the tournament) and the acquisition of world ranking points. The Tour's tournaments will contribute to the new IBA ranking system, which will allow boxers to collect valuable points on each tournament. These points will help define not only the most successful boxers at the end of the year, but also the most successful national federations having generated the highest results throughout the season.

Host National Federations will benefit from hosting any of the World Boxing Tour events, through TV broadcasting rights and accommodation revenue, tickets sales, sponsorship, and other revenues. The Host City will receive international exposure and lend to the city's economic growth and an increase in tourism. The sport of boxing will be promoted throughout the city and country, thereby engaging citizens to become involved.

Key aspects of the tournaments will be delivered and overseen by IBA, therefore guaranteeing that all efforts are made to ensure the highest levels of sporting integrity throughout the Tour.

The World Boxing Tour is composed of a series of tournaments which are classified into four categories: the Diamond Belt, Gold Belt, Silver Belt and Bronze Belt tournaments. Each year, the Tour will start from January and end in December of the same calendar year.

IBA will consider already established international tournaments that have long-standing tradition and excellence to be part of the World Boxing Tour. Additionally, National Federations will have the opportunity to create new competitions under the Tour's regulations and guidelines.

The table below shows the outline criteria for tournament classification:

	Bronze	Silver	Gold	Diamond
IBA Competition Classification	IBA-sanctioned	IBA-sanctioned	IBA-sanctioned	IBA-Owned
Number of events per year	5	4	3	1
Age & Gender eligibility	Elite Male and Female	Elite Male and Female	Elite Male and Female	Elite Male and Female
Boxer Entry requirement	Any elite boxer registered by NF*	Any elite boxer registered by NF*	Any elite boxer registered by NF*	Invitation by IBA - the top ranked boxers in each category

*Any IBA elite boxer can be registered by their respective National Federation to participate in any Bronze, Silver or Gold tournament, regardless of location of the tournament or to which continent the boxer's NF belongs to.

All the details of the qualifying tournaments and World Boxing Tour calendar will be shared with all National Federations in due course of the Tour's development. Please keep in mind that the IBA is developing all these new systems and events with the boxers' best interest at heart. Together we can solidify the importance of this beloved sport on the international stage and make the World Boxing Tour an important stepping stone in our development.

1. Bidding Process

National Federations will be required to bid to host the respective tournaments of the World Boxing Tour. Previously established events can be proposed, or new events can be created. The HNFs/LOCs will be required to host the tournament according to the stipulations set in this document, and in accordance with the IBA Technical and Competition Rules, the IBA Operational Manual and the IBA Medical Handbook. A brief outline of the Bidding Process is shown below:

2. Host Agreement

A Host Agreement will form the definitive contractual obligations that the Host National Federation, the LOC (once it is appointed by the Host National Federation) and IBA have towards each other. The agreement will be signed once the contracting parties have agreed on the initial interest from the National Federation to host a World Boxing Tour event or when this respective Federation has won an official bidding process. Host Agreement may be concluded for a cycle of 4 years maximum.
